Acupuncture Clinic Windsor - Magnetic therapy is actually a type of alternative or complementary medicine which includes utilizing magnetic fields so as to obtain health benefits. Otherwise referred to as magnet therapy, magneto-therapy or magnotherapy, the practitioners apply the magnetic field of an electromagnetic device or permanent static magnets onto the bodies of their clients.

Various health benefits are purported by magnetic therapy advocates. Even though there is no scientific proof to back these claims, some of the supposed benefits consist of increased vitality, increased energy and the accelerated healing of wounds. Some practitioners say that various health benefits can be attained based on where the magnet is placed on the body.

Some advocates and practitioners feel that individuals who forgo making use of magnets could be subjected to an unnecessary feeling of unease, discomfort or illness, or that non users are more prone to suffer from depression. These practitioners define depression as "Magnetic Field Deficiency Syndrome," then again; numerous experts deny the validity of this condition. Numerous doctors and health experts totally deny the benefits of magnetic therapy all together.

Benefits of magnetic therapy are thought to include an improved circulatory system. In fact, blood proteins called hemoglobin, carry oxygen and are weakly diamagnetic. This means that hemoglobin can generate a magnetic field in opposition to a magnetic field applied externally. Nonetheless, it is believed that the magnets which are utilized in magnetic therapy and in the products related are much too weak to have whatever affect whatsoever on the circulatory system or the blood circulation inside the body.

There are a lot of individuals who practice or undergo therapy, even though there is little to no proof supporting this type of therapy. Some individuals think that magnetic therapy operates by way of a placebo effect, meaning those who partake in magnetic therapy simply feel stronger and happier and healthier as they have been told that the therapy will provide them with health benefits.

The business is largely based on the sale of products which promise to offer the user or wearer particular health benefits. There are a wide variety of magnetic products available. Products comprise everything from magnetic mattresses, water that has been magnetized, blankets woven together with magnetic materials, magnetic straps that are designed to fit round the midsection, ankles and wrists; magnetic shoe insoles as well as various types of magnetic jewelry, specially bracelets.
